

Photo Opportunity

Tonight a candlelight vigil will be held in support of the woman who photographed her daughter's vagina;

who was arrested at the Photomat when she picked up her developed film because the vigilant employees found the pictures of the little cleft almost certainly possibly maybe pornographic enough to call the cops and make them look at it.

No one wants to see a little girl's naked bathtime, to have to gaze at perfect skin and and teeth and hair until the rubber ducky looks suggestive and the soap bubbles seem dirty.

So they charged the mom with using a camera in an unnatural act, with invading the privacy of her own life
and turning it inside out.

At eight o'clock tonight anyone who wants can join the demonstration.

A line of citizens who still believe in innocence will walk in perfect circles holding cardboard signs and candles shaped like burning penises while the wind licks everyone a little older and the flames throw fantastic shadows.
