Inventory of the Sun Room

1. The hide-a-bed sofa with wide woods-green and white-as-lotus stripes. 2. The plants. 3. The green picnic bench in front of the sofa. 4. Glass jar, large, that has the look of bottle glass, a green tint that seems less color than aura, as if the glass menagerie Laura tended in Tennessee would be at home here, yet be the wilderness around. 5. Home and Garden. 6. Low, white record-cabinets, though no one plays records, or needs cabinets for them, anymore (but to give them up is still unthinkable). 7. The blinds rolled up so guests can see spirea in full bloom and the cardinal, a rose in the sky, that bright bloom.
