

BENJAMIN LANDRY

---

Dream of Zenyatta Dancing

In a moment

[Important to avoid]

A stuttering

kick-step. [the dead

language] of delirious

boredom In the paddock

[of 'never'] before start time,

[and 'always.'] the trainer kept firebugs the filly's mouth

[Why so easy to speak]

drove down

wet with a sponge.

[against the body,]

She appeared

[its specific]

to be trying to say

to the grocery store

[eloquence?] and say

against its slumbering
artificial the turf.

bit
How perfectly

the first fruit
and the leading hand.

fell On the oval,
even the bruising

she stamped
picturesque

They set it
with joy ablaze.